Soaringwords + Zumba® classes with hospitalized volunteering at hospitals to share free monthly children, teens, their families and hospital staff.

When ill children and teens do something altruistic to help another person, it enhances their wellbeing. The graph companies. Soaringwords is considered a best-practice programs for more than 150,000 professionals at leading hands-on activities have been the emotional highlight of engagement, team-building and loyalty. Soaringwords’

SOARING INTO STRENGTH UNIQUE Community Relations Managers.

Soaringwords provides hands-on volunteer projects and ENGAGEMENT

SOARING into Strength, into Strength workshops and interventions have also been shared with thousands of adults and seniors around the world.

After inspiring thousands of children to take active roles in their own healing, Soaringwords codified its unique approach into a scientific model to enhance the wellbeing of children and teens who are ill, families, and caregivers. The SOARING Appreciative Inquiry journal prompts inspire readers to integrate the SOARING into Strength approaches and tools into showcases compelling stories of people who best embody the SOARING into Strength approach. Thought-provoking memoir that details Lisa’s three experiences with death and illness that occurred in her family in ten months. Each chapter

What can hospitals, families, friends and even self-expression or, feel helpless and isolated.

flourish, experience positive emotions and dozens of key choices that enable them to maintain a pre-hospital identity. Throughout the

THE NEED

500,000

500,000 STUDENTS & VOLUNTEERS

Soaringwords was started by Lisa Honig Buksbaum after three experiences with death and illness in her family. Within ten months, her brother Gary died suddenly, her father had Non-Hodgkin’s Lymphoma and a bone marrow transplant, and her oldest son, Jonathan, was diagnosed with Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia. Lisa, her husband, and her son, then 3 years old, moved to Philadelphia where Jonathan was treated at the Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia for three years. During the height of Jonathan’s illness, she had a calling to launch Soaringwords to inspire millions of ill children and their families to “pay it forward” to help others.

MISSION

Soaringwords + Zumba®

- Love for hospitalized children
- Zumba®️ classes with hospitalized

- Hospital Pediatric In-patient & Clinics
- Community Centers
- Rehabilitation and Exercise Centers

Super-healthy families and friends growing

SOARING INTO STRENGTH UNIQUE POSITIVE PSYCHOLOGY MODEL TO HEAL

More than a fluffy art project? When you create or receive a Soaringwords gift you share part of your unique character strengths and creativity with others in order to inspire them to flourish in the face of challenging circumstances.

THE POWER TO HEAL®

More than Fun & Distraction

SOARING INTO STRENGTH, Community Engagement

Engaging communities around the world to live healthier, happier, more successful lives.

250,000 STUDENTS & VOLUNTEERS

Get involved. Inspire ill children to “Never give up!”

www.soaringwords.org

Soaringwords, Inc. | 5 West 86th St. Suite 1500, NY, NY 10024  | 917-499-3783 | heal@soaringwords.org

www.soaringwords.org